The British Admiralty is considering the question of steamship subsidies in view of the Morgan transatlantic combination. Great Britain is showing marked interest in the transatlantic steamship combine and in some quarters Mr. Morgan is held up as a non-resister ready to deal blows to British commerce, and as one who is calmly organizing earthquakes to swallow up the world. The Westminster Gazette regards the shipping merger as an evolution of modern business, in which it regards Americans as past masters. The enlightened self-interests of controllers of combinations is held to be the only corrective.

Six big packing firms are believed to regulate the buying and selling of cattle. The Dingley law puts a prohibitive tariff on the importation of beef from Canada.

A knotty legal tangle has arisen over the title to 36,000 acres of land in Knox county, Ky. With the exception of this tract, all the other lands have been sold or leased to old men. The evidence of the defense and the rebuttal testimony of the prosecution in the Berry Howard case were completed Thursday and Judge Cantrill instructed the jury, the defense offering objections to one of the five instructions. Mr. Forester began the argument for the defense, but his speech was cut short by a sudden indisposition and court was adjourned until this morning. The evidence offered by the defense yesterday was mainly an attack upon the character of some of the witnesses. The Commonwealth in its rebuttal testimony succeeded in contradicting several of the statements made by Howard while on the witness stand in his own behalf.

ON KENTUCKY.

"We are all poor and proud in Kentucky," says Congressman Gilbert, of that State, "and," he adds, "the poorer the prouder."

If there is a man more able to sing the praises of Kentucky than Mr. Gilbert, lead us to him. For the Representative from the Eighth district has ransacked all the pages of history, political, ecclesiastical and civil, to find out just how Kentuckians have distinguished themselves. "It was a gallant young Kentucky," says he, "who sealed the walls of Chapultepec and planted the Stars and Stripes above the palace of the Montezumas. The first steamboat ever seen in the world was invented by John Fitch, a Kentuckian. The greatest orator in the world, James A. Dubois, was a Kentuckian. The first successful operation of ovariectomy and the first successful hip-joint amputation in surgery were performed by Kentucky surgeons. Alexander Campbell, a Kentuckian, founded the greatest and most respectable religious denomination that ever originated on the Western hemisphere. The most gifted and eloquent preacher in the Presbyterian Church was Robert J. Breckinridge, of Kentucky."

But why not continue Mr. Gilbert's interesting list, especially when he has other rounds in the ladder, whereby Kentucky mounts to the highest plane? For instance, Kentucky was the first State to establish a general system of public schools supported by universal taxation. It was Kentucky's soldiers who made possible the victory of Gen. Jackson at New Orleans, and Kentucky furnished more soldiers than any other State in the war with Mexico. "And, best of all," according to Mr. Gilbert, "no State of equal population has fewer suits for seduction, slander, divorce or libel, and no State has fewer prosecutions for robbery, theft, arson or burglary."—Washington Post.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT.

Reports on Peaches are conflicting—Potato Planting Slow. The U. S. Agricultural Department Climate and Crop Bulletin of the weather bureau for Kentucky section says in brief for this week:

In the Western section, potatoes have been mostly planted. Reports on peaches are quite conflicting. In the extreme western and southern counties they are in bloom, while in the northern and eastern counties they are mostly all killed by severe weather during the winter, but other fruits appear to be in good condition, only a little late.

Vegetation has started more slowly in the central section than in the western and the freezing weather during the first of last week was more severe, but potato planting and gardening is progressing fairly well. Franklin, Lurie, Marcey and Wayne counties report an outlook for a partial crop of peaches, but most counties in the central section expect the peach crop to be a failure. In the eastern section potato planting has begun, but gardening has hardly been attempted as yet. Fruit trees have been only slightly started except in a few of the southern counties. Peaches are believed to be nearly a failure but are not far enough advanced to determine positively. Other fruits look promising.

You can't make him eat either. You can stuff food into a thin man's stomach but that doesn't make him use it.

Scott's Emulsion can make him use it. How? By making him hungry, of course. Scott's Emulsion makes a thin body hungry all over. Thought a thin body was naturally hungry didn't you? Well it isn't. A thin body is asleep—not working—gone on a strike. It doesn't try to use its food.

Scott's Emulsion wakes it up—puts it to work again making new flesh. That's the way to get fat.

the summer.

at other work for some time,

Quarterly meeting at Kavanagh.

terms of the Doctor's preaching."

Special Judge in Pike.
Judge Riddle, an attorney well known throughout the State, passed up Tuesday on his way to Pikeville to act as special Judge of the Circuit Court now in session there.
He will preside during the trial of important issues in which Judge Auxier is disqualified by relationship.

Church Dedication.
Dr. Boland will dedicate the new church (Moore's Chapel) on Blaine circuit on next Sunday, May 4th. He will also hold the Quarterly meeting on Saturday. All are invited to attend these services.
On this account there will be no services at the M. E. Church South in Louisa Sunday, except Sunday School, which will be held at the usual time.

Farm Products Needed.
It is not likely that there will be any overproduction in agriculture this year, says the Farmers' Home Journal. There is such a scarcity of everything produced on the farm that if every acre planted should produce double the average yield it would not be too much.
We need more, wheat, oats, cattle, sheep and hogs; therefore farmers should work to produce big crops without fear of an overproduction.
The effect of a great yield would be to cheapen prices to a certain extent, which would cause general relieving.

Muncy-Meek.
Miss Edna Meek and Elbert Muncy were quietly married at the home of the bride last Wednesday.
A small crowd of friends gathered about 8 p. m. Then appeared the beautiful bride and the handsome groom. Rev. L. M. Copley performed the ceremony. Then all marched to the dining room where a grand supper was served. The bride is the daughter of F. Meek, and the groom is the son of Rev.
James L. Muncy, deceased. Both bride and groom are of high standing in society. The bride is a member of the Baptist church.
May life be long and happy to them both.

Circuit Court.
Circuit Court is still in session, but will probably close its work for the term today.

The most important case within the past week was that of Morris Griffin's administrator against Gano Johnson, &c., and the Equitable Insurance Company. Griffin died in the poorhouse of this county with $16,000 insurance on his life. It was assigned to Johnson, &c., however, and the insurance company paid the amount to them.
John Hayes was appointed administrator of the pauper's estate and brought suit to recover the insurance. Johnson lives at Mt. Sterling.
After consuming about two days on the case it was decided to continue until next court. The continuance was secured by the defense.

Ben Wilson has been granted a new trial in the case of John Bartram and others against him, in which a judgement was rendered last week.

Serious Cutting Affray.
On Georges Creek last Sunday morning Ed Boyd cut and dangerously wounded Thos. J. Dalton.
The trouble occurred on the public road near Boyd's home. An ill-feeling had existed between the men for quite a while and had been aggravated recently by some remarks made by them about each other. Dalton attends Sunday School regularly and passes Boyd's house in going there. When on his way last Sunday Boyd and E.
Wiley were standing by the roadside. Dalton was riding. With him were Jesse George, Doc. Debord, Lawrence Kaze and Joe Davis.
It is said that when Dalton was passing, Boyd addressed a remark to him and then threw a rock, striking Dalton with sufficient force to unseat him. Dalton caught the horse's mane as he went down, and alighted on his feet. Boyd had rushed up with his knife in hand, and at once slashed him in the abdomen, under the horse's neck. Dalton started to run and Boyd stabbed him near the shoulder blade.

The wound in the abdomen is causing Dalton and his friends much apprehension, but the latest reports of his condition are favorable.

Boyd came to Louisa and surrendered and was placed under $500.00 bond. The examining trial will be held as soon as the results of Mr. Dalton's injuries are assured.

Dalton is about 36 years of age, unmarried, and was formerly a school teacher. Boyd is married.

SUDDEN DEATH.
The Wife of County Judge R. F.
Vinson Passes Away.

This community has not been more severely shocked lately than it was last Sunday night by the sudden death of Mrs. R. F. Vinson, wife of our esteemed County Judge.
The final summons came about 9:30 Sunday night, at her home one mile from Louisa.

Mrs. Vinson had retired in apparent good health and in excellent spirits. In a short time, however, she was attacked by something like congestion of the lungs, and grew rapidly worse. Her husband and son Jay were with her.
The latter called in some neighbors and went after Dr. J. D. Biggs.
But by the time the latter arrived the good woman was beyond the aid of human skill. She lived only thirty minutes after becoming ill.

The funeral took place Tuesday at one o'clock from the residence, Rev. John T. Johnson, of the M. E.
Church South, an old friend of the family, preached the funeral sermon, and Dr. J. M. Boland, pastor of the M. E. Church South at this place, assisted with the services.
The remains were laid to rest in Pine Hill Cemetery, near the newly made grave of her granddaughter, Mrs. E. B. Hager. A large number of people attended the funeral and the interment. Mrs. Vinson was in her 62nd year. She was a woman of much intelligence and refinement. Deeply devoted to home and family she led a quiet and somewhat secluded life, but all who knew her had the highest respect and admiration for her.
Death has taken her in the midst of a happy maturity. Her health was good enough to give the family hope that this faithful wife and mother would be with them for many years. The uncertainty of life has a most forceful illustration in this sad case. It is especially so to a number of friends who were driving out past the Vinson home on that beautiful afternoon last Sunday and stopped to talk with Mrs. Vinson, who came out to the fence.

Deceased leaves a husband, three daughters and two sons—Mrs. R. J. Priehard, Mrs. A. J.
Garrod, Mrs. J. Tate Greover, G. R.
Vinson, cashier of the Bank of Louisa, and attorney Jay A. Vinson.
Mr. and Mrs. Greover arrived from Tazewell, Va., in time for the funeral. Col. Jack May, of Virginia, a distinguished uncle of the deceased, also came. Others from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mrs. G. W. Hutchinson, Mrs. J. F. Ratcliff and Mrs.
Felix, of Huntington.

Mrs. Vinson was a daughter of Dr. Randall, who died a good many years ago. Her mother died only a few months ago, in Wisconsin.

This way, sinners! Come and see our line of sewing machines.
They are something new and the prices are O. K.

eling salesman, formerly of this place, is now experiencing the joy is Edward Oscar.

Albert Murray has moved from the cottage adjoining the residence of W. N. Sullivan into the house where he will work during the summer. His wife will accompany him.

Tom Hatcher has moved into the house vacated by Mr. Murray.

State Insurance Commissioner Chenault has completed his report on the fire insurance companies doing business in Kentucky. It shows that sixteen have withdrawn since January 1, 1901, while seven new ones have entered the field. Two have been placed in receivers' hands, another application for a receiver is pending and 114 companies are now operating.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. M. Stewart of 121 Bath avenue have issued invitations for an "At Home," Tuesday the sixth of May from eight until twelve o'clock. The invitations are beautifully engraved and the affair promises to be one of the most elegant functions of the season. The magnificent Stewart home is well adapted for entertaining and both the host and hostess are ideal entertainers.—Ashland

A number of these invitations have been received in Louisa.

The Weekly Shooting.

Hiram Blackburn shot Jonas Payne Monday on Little Blaine.
Payne had his hand in his trousers pocket and the ball passed through the hand and into Payne's thigh, causing a severe wound.

Blackburn is a son of Harmon, and is a young man not out of his teens. Payne is about 40 years of age.

Reports say that Payne was wrought up over some remarks that were alleged to have been made by Blackburn, and that he had threatened to whip Blackburn.
The shooting occurred when they met.

Conductor Meyers has resumed his run on the passenger train, Johnson, was in charge during his has been at Asheville, N. C. since and is feeling quite well. He will return home a little later in the season, when continued warm weather is assured.

ing graduated with the highest honors from the Ohio Medical College a few years ago, and having had considerable hospital experience.—Ashland Daily Independent.

Dr. Layne is a Louisa product of whom we feel very proud. He is right up at the top in his profession.

Railroad Matters.

There is nothing particularly new in the railroad situation up the Levisa fork of Big Sandy.

The C. & O. has about 300 men at work on the line at the upper end, and contractors are now inspecting the route between Whitehouse and the Breaks preparatory to bidding upon the work. Right-of-way matters are beginning to take definite shape.

It is reported that the Seaboard Air Line people are not so active as they were. One report says their forces have been withdrawn from the Breaks. Others contend that they are still intending to build.

Vice President Axtell and Solicitor Wickham, of the C. & O., expressed themselves as having been more favorably impressed with the route and the country after a trip up there than ever before.

A TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

The following tribute was written by Miss Mary Middleton Stewart, of Point Pleasant, W. Va., in memory of Mrs.
Lucie Prichard Hager:

I beheld a lovely vision tonight—A bright, smiling face so fair, With the crimson blood glowing in cheeks and lips;
And beautiful, pearly colored eyes, and golden hair.
And her voice like a chime of silver bells.
Ringing musically in my ear.
And the dimples in her cheeks coming and going I see.
And gazing on her joyous, mirthful face The listener is constrained to join in her glee.

I still can see her graceful figure As she walks along the streets, As with a beaming smile, She recognizes all she meets.
For she was a general favorite, at home and abroad.
And would win friends wherever she would go.
By her amiable, gentle and happy disposition.
And won love such as few could know.
And the sound of her voice comes back to me And awakes sweet memories of the past anew in my heart.
Like strains of half forgotten melody, Which lingers in the mind, and does not depart.
Oh! what would life be without these memories
Of the beautiful dreams which have fled.
When our paths were rose-strewn, out hearts untroubled.
And our bitter tears unstilled.
She was an only child, and very much indulged.
But that did not injure her in the least.
For no selfish or unkind disposition or vain notions marred her life.
Or an enemy for her did gain.
We are told that death loves a shining mark.
And I believe the remark to be true.
For generally the brightest, loveliest and most prized.
Are the first to fade from our view.

I thought her life would be long and happy.
Spent in enjoyment for years to come.
That death would leave this lovely flower
To long and glad her home.
No, I never supposed for an instant That death's cruel frost could blight Her loved ones' most precious flower, their jewel.
And plunge them into serious night.
But she heard her Savior calling her.
Out of the shadows dim.
And she bade her sorrowing friends a fond goodby.
And passed quietly forth with Him.
She put her hand in His hand, pierced one.
And drifted confidently out in His care.
And He led her through the silent river.
To her home in Heaven's mansion fair.

She has passed away in her beauty.
To that land where they never grow old.
And no pain or illness can ever enter Beneath the tree of life on the streets of gold.

She joined with the choir here on earth, To sing of Christ's redeeming love, that can never on earth be fully told.
Now her sweet voice sings the anthems That ring through the city of gold.

Yes, gather around the casket We strain our beautiful eyes; God has only taken your precious treasure To join her angel sisters beyond the sky.

Yes, twine the roses and lilies together For an emblem to place on her heart.
Fit emblems—the rose, of the bright love,
And the lilies, of the spotless purity Of our darling who has entered into rest.

They also represent your love for her, And the pure faith and joy in your heart.
That after the joys and sorrows of life you will join Lucie never more to part.
Where no hands are clasped in sad farewells.
And no lips give the goodby kiss:
For death is banished forever From that kingdom of perfect bliss.

Yes, they wreath those fragrant flowers in the form of a harp.
A type of the one she has gained on that land.
Where the crystal waves of life's river, Break over the bright golden strand,
And while you are weeping in anguish, Prostrated beneath your burden of sorrow.

Her eyes view the wonders of Heaven Amid glories no mortal may know.
Yes, she lies there sleeping before you On her lips her familiar smile.
As if she was only resting.
And her blue-veined eyelids would open And again after awhile, And they will, in that morning, Which will usher in that never ending day.

And her smiling face will greet you again.
And death will lose his sting and scerper foray.

I often think of my Father Takes our darlings out of our grasp, home.
Because He wishes us to set our affections
More on the land to which they have gone.
And I do not believe it is so distant—That glorious home to which they have gone.
I believe that if our ears were not clogged with earth's fetters We could hear the redeemed one's songs.
For we are told a cloud of innumerable witnesses.
Hold us in bright array.
So that we can see our own are continually looking
On that eternal day.
And I think that must be one reason That there is no sorrow in Heaven That in our journey up to meet them A view of us to them is given.

Oh how sweet it will be when our journey
Is completed with all its tears:
And a sight of the golden city.
To our dying vision appears,
With our loved ones coming to meet us To escort us to their home.
I think we will be so happy When we are crossing death's tide.
Our voices will join in the hosannas That they sing on the further side.

For I know there will come ringing To our ears across the tide, That song to our blessed Redeemer, To Jesus once crucified.
And we will walk through the river safely Sustained by God's loving care, And pass joyously up the river banks.
To that meeting with loved ones there.

Let us put our hands in our father's And he will guide us all the way Through trials, temptations, heartaches and bereavement.
To the dawn of that blessed day.
Then in that home, where our loved ones are waiting.
Where no goodbyes are spoken.
No tears of anguish are shed,
And no dead are laid away.
The loving hand of our Father Will wipe all tears from our eyes for aye.

pointed Train Master and Chief Train Dispatcher Greenbrier Division, vice Mr. B. T. Dixon deceased."

Mr. Freeman has been in Ashland for a long time as Chief Train Dispatcher.

Deputy Collector Randall has just returned from a raid in Clay county, where he and his posse destroyed two stills. After the stills had been demolished the officers heard of another that was being operated in the neighborhood.
Leaving Deputy Marshal Thompson and two possemen, Jones and Wyrick, to capture the owners of the destroyed still in case they should return, Randall and Deputy Collector Short went to find third still. While Thompson and the men under him were concealed about thirty yards from the still, they discovered four men creeping through the brush in their direction. The party in hiding waited until the men came within a few feet of them, when, drawing their guns, Thompson ordered them to throw up their hands. The supposed moonshiners had their fortyfours ready for use, but were caught at a disadvantage. They surrendered and were disarmed.

After being under arrest for some time, one of the men thought here-cognized Thompson, and began to make inquiries which led to the discovery that the captured men were Deputy Collector McCoy, of Jackson county; Deputy Marshal Morgan, of Beattyville, Posseman Brandenburg and a pilot. Both revenue parties had come to destroy the same still. The officers were released and the arrests caused no hard feelings.

Lexington, Ky., April 27.—Jas.
B. Haggins, whose $350,000 residence in the heart of his Elmdorf breeding stud has just been completed, has come here to superintend the furnishing of the palace and will begin work tomorrow.
Several car loads of furniture are due from the East, and everything will be arranged under his personal direction. Mrs. Haggins came with him, and they spent today in Woodford county with her mother, Mrs. Asaden. The furnishing of the house is to cost some $200,000.

A report from Greenup that is probably somewhat exaggerated says:

"It has recently developed that each county in the Ninth congressional district will present a favorable son for the Republican nomination, and some of them even two.
Among the most prominently mentioned are Senator W. H. Cox, Mason county; S. J. Pugh, Lewis county; J. P. McCartney, Fleming county; Dr. A. S. Brady, Greenup county; R. C. Burns and O. F. Byron, Boyd county, and Col. G. W.
Armstrong, Carter county.

Greenup county has two dark horses in the persons of J. Buck Wilhoit and County Judge Joe B.
Bennett.

Congressman J. N. Kehoe will have no opposition for the Democratic nomination.

Maj. James Parker, of the Adjutant General's office, has made a detailed and comprehensive report to the War Department in regard to five camp sites offered the Government. These sites, named according to their location, are as follows:

Ashland, Ky.; Harrod's Creek, Ky.; West Point, Ky.; Meadow Lawn, Ky., and the Indiana site located between the cities of Jeffersonville and New Albany, Ind.
The sites at Harrod's creek, Ashland and West Point contain all the essentials of a military camp including good water, transportation facilities, drainage, soil, etc., according to the report of Maj.
Parker. The site at Harrod's creek is offered at $118 an acre; that at Ashland is held at $25 an acre, and that at West Point at $20 an acre. These reservations average 25,000 acres. Maj. Parker describes each of these sites at length but expresses no preference, leaving it to the department to determine which under all the circumstances, is the most desirable.
Maj. Parker rejects the sites at Meadow Lawn and in Indiana as unsuitable.
